

ABSTRACT

A Label-Free High-Throughput Optical Technique

for Detecting Biomolecular Interactions

Methods and compositions are provided for detecting biomolecular 5 interactions. The use of labels is not required and the methods can be performed in a high-throughput manner. The invention also provides optical devices useful as narrow band filters.